

Partnering for Impact: Community Schools & Law Schools

Collective Dreaming

Where did we start? We asked families, students, community members, and school staff about their hopes and dreams for their community school, their students, and their community. We then identified how to collectively make those dreams a reality.

Collaborative Leadership, Shared Power, and Voice

Community School Innovation. Parents, caregivers, and school staff co-created a parent-led preschool coop supported by community partners.

Community Assets

Community partners and assets. Central NM Community College, the Daniels Fund, W.K. Kellogg Foundation, University of NM Family Development Program, and the Keeler Foundation supported the enrollment of 14 moms in the one- year Child Development Certificate Program.

Strategic Partnerships

Engaging experts. We engaged professors and students with the UNM School of Law who worked with 5 parents to create a cooperatively owned childcare business, licensed with the State of NM. Bilingual law students conducted all meetings, and wrote bylaws, etc. in Spanish or with interpretation.

Economic Impact

Entrepreneurs. A cooperatively owned business creates economic impact by contributing income for the owners and their families and by providing needed childcare services for the community.

In Their Own Words

Paulina “The CO-OP project has been a unique experience that has changed my life. Being part of this project has helped me grow personally and professionally. I am very grateful because I had the opportunity to go to college and be able to obtain my Associates in Early Education. It has also given me the tools to help the children and families in my community. All these experiences have made me be the best example for my children and my family. I feel very proud to hear my children say: I want to be like my mother and I want to go to university like her. Being part of this project I have had the opportunity to provide a better future for my children, to be able to have a business and provide jobs in our community.”

Nuvia “The CO-OP project has been a great experience in my life and an excellent opportunity to learn, enjoy collaborative work and develop personally and professionally. I am currently studying at CNM to obtain my associate degree in early education. It makes me happy to be able to support families and children. It is wonderful to do what you enjoy or like and have that bring joy to someone’s life. It makes me happy to contribute with my work at home, to this great country and to be able to generate job and professional development opportunities for more people.”
